

-----
Title: Tribes of Eodon:Sakkhra

Author: Professor Ellie Rafkin
-----

The Northern stretches of Eodon are cut through by flowing streams and a vast swamp. Lizard like beasts of fantastic origins inhabit these lands.
Our escorts have more than once attempted to best of these beasts, their armor and weapons showing the wear of such a challenge. Protected from these creatures by tall stone walls - and displaying the most advanced building and farming technologies we have thus encountered in the Valley - are the Sakkhra. The Sakkhra
worship these lizard-like creatures which they refer to in a native word
"Di-no-saur". The towering walls of their village protect them from the Dinosaurs, but still the Sakkhra, adorned in colors as vibrant and varied as the reptiles they worship venture beyond the safety of their village to hunt the greatest of the dinosaurs, Tyrannosaurus Rex. I have yet to encounter, and am almost thankful for it, the beast but in my exchanges with the Sakkras I have learned the the Tyrannosaurus Rex is vicious animal that has an appetite for other dinosaurs which it feeds on to grow stronger. I have urged my escorts to allow us to venture into the swamps in an effort to better study the creatures - alas they say it is too dangerous.